Equality, Diversity & Inclusion Policy

INTRODUCTION

Orchard Hill College and Academy Trust (OHC&AT) is committed to providing outstanding educational opportunities for all our pupils, students and apprentices. OHC&AT is a 'family' of providers, comprising Orchard Hill College (OHC) and Orchard Hill College Academy Trust (OHCAT), which works for mutual benefit. OHC&AT is proud of its diverse community of pupils/students, apprentices, staff and stakeholders and is committed to maintaining excellence in teaching and learning by ensuring there is equality of opportunity for all, fostered in an environment of mutual respect and dignity.

As used within this policy, equality means ensuring everyone is able to participate in all our activities. Diversity acknowledges there are differences between people, which should be recognised, respected and celebrated. Inclusion means everyone feels enabled to participate fully in the life of the OHC&AT community, and valued for the contributions that they make.

OHC&AT celebrates our organisational diversity. We embed a culture where all can contribute and be themselves.

As a public body we strive to be an exemplar to others. We value and welcome the different ideas, skills, behaviours and experiences of all. We aim to foster a culture that promotes wellbeing and mental health and provides support to enable everyone within our community to thrive.

As an employer and provider of education we are committed to meeting our legal obligations and promoting equality, diversity and inclusion in both our work and our workforce.

We recognise that we need staff from diverse backgrounds to help ensure we make sound decisions that are representative of different perspectives within society. We seek to positively influence the approach of the staff and pupils/students/apprentices we work with to promote diversity and inclusion. We believe that a diverse workforce can help us to do that much more effectively.

The Law

- The Equality Act 2010: This is the main law on equality in the UK. It prohibits discrimination on the basis of nine protected characteristics: age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief, sex, and sexual orientation.
- The Human Rights Act 1998: This law incorporates the European Convention on Human Rights into UK law. It protects a number of human rights, including the right to non-discrimination.

- The Sex Discrimination Act 1975: This law prohibits discrimination on the basis of sex in employment, education, and the provision of goods, services, and facilities.
- The Race Relations Act 1976: This law prohibits discrimination on the basis of race in employment, education, and the provision of goods, services, and facilities.
- The Disability Discrimination Act 1995: This law prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability in employment, education, and the provision of goods, services, and facilities.

Under the Equality Act 2010, we have a legal duty to have due regard to the need to promote equality of opportunity, eliminate unlawful discrimination and foster good relations between key equality strands. These include:

- Age (in employment)
- Disability
- Gender Reassignment
- Marriage or Civil Partnership (in employment)
- Pregnancy and Maternity
- Race
- Religion or belief
- Sex
- Sexual orientation

We strive to do more than just meet our statutory obligations. We promote equal opportunities and we respect and acknowledge the diversity of those who work within our organisation, our pupils/students/apprentices and other stakeholders.

The equality duty has two main parts: the 'general' equality duty and 'specific duties'.

The general equality duty sets out the equality matters that OHC&AT needs to consider when making decisions that affect pupils/students/apprentices or staff with different protected characteristics. This duty has three elements. In carrying out their functions, public bodies are required to have 'due regard', when making decisions and developing policies, to the need to:

1. Eliminate discrimination, harassment, victimisation and other conduct that is prohibited by the Equality Act 2010.
2. Advance equality of opportunity between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it.
3. Foster good relations across all protected characteristics – between people who share a protected characteristic and people who do not share it.

Having due regard to the need to advance equality of opportunity is defined further in the Equality Act 2010 as having due regard to the need to:

1. Remove or minimise disadvantages
2. Take steps to meet different needs
3. Encourage participation when it is disproportionately low.

In order to help educational establishments in England meet the general equality duty, there are two specific duties that they are required to carry out. These are:

1. To publish information to demonstrate how they are complying with the equality duty, at least annually;
2. To prepare and publish one or more specific and measurable equality objectives, at least every four years.

Equality objectives for each OHC&AT provision can be found on the relevant website.

From April 2018 organisations with more than 250 employees are required to report on gender pay gap data. OHC&AT reports on this data annually, for both OHC and OHCAT as employers, and there is a strategy in place to close any identified gaps.
